CONSTANCE GUISET SCULPTS THE FLEURON CHAIR

Taking inspiration from infrastructure, Constance Guisset transforms an engineering solution into a sculptured seat with the Fleuron chair. Based on the idea of a buttress that reinforces a wall, an additional back support adds to the softness of the seat's curved form. Its unique craft characterizes the design, especially as the support element is contrasted in different colors and finishes to the rest of the body. An all-wood version or highly comfortably padded variation are offered.
