SCHOOL OF ROCKS

L'École Van Cleef & Arpels, Paris

Housed in a neoclassical mansion in Paris, L'École Van Cleef & Arpels features interiors by renowned French designer Constance Guisset

An elegant new site for a jewellery school is offering courses on everything from gemology and lacquer design to setting techniques and savoir-faire. L'École Van Cleef & Arpels, which was founded in 2012 with the aim of spreading jewellery culture to the widest possible audience, has recently opened the doors to its newest venture, housed in the Hôtel de Mercy-Argenteau, an 18th century neoclassical mansion in Paris' 9th arrondissement. As well as a wide range of courses, the site also offers a vast exhibition space, bookstore and generously equipped library. ✨
